Dear Student,

You need to attempt one assignment for the Elective Course in English (BEGE-104): English for Business Communication. This assignment is Tutor Marked (TMA) and carries 100 marks. The TMA is concerned mainly with assessing your application and your understanding of the course material. It aims to teach as well as to assess your performance.

Instructions: Before attempting the assignment please read the following instructions carefully.

- 1. Read the detailed instructions about the assignments given in the Programme Guide for Elective Courses.
- 2. Write your Roll Number, Name, Full Address and Date on the top right corner of the first page of your response sheet(s).
- 3. Write the Course Title, Assignment Number and the Name of the Study Centre you are attached to in the centre of the first page of your response sheet(s).
- 4. Do not plan to take the terminal examination for the course if you have not done the assignment set for it first. You will not be permitted to do so.

The top of the first page of your response sheet should look like this:

Roll No
Name:
Address
Date:

- 5. Use only foolscap size paper for your response sheets and tag all the pages carefully.
- 6. Write the relevant question number with each answer.
- 7. You should write in your own handwriting.
- 8. Submission: Remember to keep a copy of your assignment with you and to take a receipt from your Study Centre when you submit the assignment. The completed assignment should be sent to the Coordinator at the Study Centre allotted to you. Last Date for Submission of Assignment is:

For June Exam

- 31st March/as per dates given on the website

For December Exam

- 30th September/as per dates given on the website

Note: Remember the submission of assignment is a precondition for appearing in the examination. If you do not submit the assignment on time, you will not be allowed to appear in the examination.

Good luck!

Note: Answer all questions

1 Read the passage carefully and answer the questions given below it.

Paralanguage is the meaning conveyed by how something is said. Oral communication is what is said. This is the distinguishing feature that makes paralanguage different from oral language and also indicates their inseparability. It is impossible to have paralanguage without oral communication. It is almost like the relationship between computer software and hardwares, there is no use of one without the other.

Paralanguage is one of the most powerful complementing media that oral communication possesses over the written. How a particular message is said is to a great extent its measure of importance. In some ways, we may call it the 'highlighter' of oral messages, since it uses certain physical aspects of language articulation to emphasize the central focus of the message. The features of paralanguage are: Voice (volume variation, pitch variation, speed of speaking and pauses), Word stress, Inflections and Non-fluencies. To see what role they play in this nonverbal medium, let us take up an important paralinguistic feature 'voice'.

Voice: When the phone rings and we take the call, a voice says 'Hello'. What are the first few things we learn about the caller apart from the meaning of the five-letter word 'Hello'? You will be surprised by how much you can actually learn from the paralanguage of the message. First, you will be able to make out the gender of the caller; second, whether it is an identifiable or familiar voice; third, if unfamiliar, from the way the word is spoken, you may be able to assume the socio-linguistic or educational background of the person. Now, none of these meanings are actually 'contained' in the word 'Hello'. These are all derived from the paralinguistic voice associate and not the oral communication itself. It is also true that without the voice it is impossible to communicate orally. This then is the relationship that exists between the two where paralanguage helps to add further meaning to the oral communication.

Paralanguage is, as the name suggests, 'like' language. It does not use words as such. It is basically the vocalization of words.
