Everybody undergoes stress whether s/he is an adult, a senior citizen or a child. Sometimes s/he seeks temporary escape from the stress of life in Drugs. The momentary escape and mental relaxation, provided by the initial intake encourage people to use the drugs frequently. The body then becomes totally dependent on drugs and cannot survive without the daily dose.

With regular intake, the amount also increases. The physical and mental dependence on drugs is called drug addiction.

Drugs are mostly introduced to an unsuspecting person by his/her friends. Once addicted, s/he further initiates others to drugs. The vicious cycle has no end. Although these drugs induce a feeling of ecstasy. They prove harmful to the body in the long run. Addicts lose weight and show a total disinterest in work. If Heroin addicts, do not take their daily dose, suffer from abdominal and muscle cramps, vomiting, diarrhea, shivering and perspiration. Sometimes the abusers resort to crime to get the drugs. It is found that children are prone to drugs during the onset of their adolescence when they confront emotional and physical changes.
